To whom it may concern,

I am a single income and sole support of my house in the Core area. [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] When My ex-wife and I purchased this house 6 years ago we had to upgrade the septic system to the tune of 7,000.00 dollars. With no one ever saying anything about a sewer. We do not need nor do we want one. For me it is strictly financial I could never afford it. I would have to sell my home.

This is being driven by developers that want to build on vacant land where you can not presently build. It would be a shame for honest hard working people to lose there homes because of the greed of a few. Ted Olsen [REDACTED]
